Query Selectors (querySelector)

- The querySelector method (without the All part) works in a similar way.
- This one is useful if you want a specific, single element.
- It will return only the first matching element or null when no element matches.